

October 14, 2006

Question: What is most helpful for me now?

Answer: Forget about the world. Forget about illusions. Focus the mind on what it believes, and tell the mind its false beliefs are not true. One-by-one, look at them and whisper in love, "That belief is not true."

You are the teacher of yourself. What you choose to accept, you teach. Now, most of what you accept is not true.

Everything that is false must be let go. In order to let it go, you must be willing to see it as not true. You must look at what you believe and deny it.

This is different than the ego's denial, and the difference is critical.

The ego's denial is to not look at that which you fear, because you believe it is true. To willingly look at it and deny it is to teach that it is not true, and therefore, it cannot be fearful.

When I tell you to forget about the world and forget about illusions, I am not asking you to deny them as fearful. I am asking you to accept that they are not real and to let go of anything . . . every thought . . . that would teach you otherwise.

This takes mind concentration, but it is not thinking. It is observing. This takes discernment, but it is not judgment. It is not an action you take alone. It is one you take with Me in peaceful and purposeful determination to see.

Now, let's begin.

October 22, 2006

Question: A Course in Miracles says, "The Atonement does not make holy. You were created holy. It merely brings unholiness to holiness, or what you made to what you are. Bringing illusion to truth, or the ego to God, is the Holy Spirit's only function."

Holy Spirit, what do you want to share about this?

Answer: I ask you to look at these words carefully, for they say more than they may seem to say if you look at them too quickly. Ignore the sentence breaks. This is all one thought. Look at the words that are brought together, and then look beyond the words to what they say.

Bring unholiness	to	holiness
Bring what you made	to	what you are
Bring illusion	to	truth
Bring ego	to	God

Let your eyes look at these words. Let the mind drink of their message. Let the heart tell you it is true. Let resistance go, as resistance is unholiness.

You are holiness.
That is what you are.
That is your truth,
because you are God.

You are not a subset of God. You are not almost God. You are God, because God is all that is.

God is a life force, which brings into being. And yet, nothing exists that is not God. In seeing this, you see everything. In accepting this, you are free.

Bring the unholy to the holy. See that one is eternal reality and the other need not be, because it cannot be, because it is not you.

Bring what you made to what you are, and see clearly which is truth. Let go of illusion, because it need not be, because it cannot be, because it is not you.

Bring the ego to God, and remember what you are. Be grateful for your truth. Choose to acknowledge truth by not acknowledging that which must be forever false, because it cannot be true.

Bring unholiness	to	holiness
Bring what you made	to	what you are
Bring illusion	to	truth
Bring ego	to	God

Accept the Atonement, which is correction of an error that can never be true, by letting go of the error, which never was.

October 23, 2006

Question: Holy Spirit, why do I bring my feeling of unworthiness from the past into some of my present moments?

Answer: It is because you do not want to let go of the past. By that, I mean that you want to maintain your belief that you are separate from and different than God. In order to believe you are separate from and different than God, you must see yourself as different. Unworthiness is a choice that allows you to see yourself as different than God.

Question: So choosing unworthiness is like choosing sickness; it allows me to see myself as small. Why do I want to see myself as small? Why can't I seem to make the choice to see myself as God?

Answer: It's because you believe the world. You believe you have done something real within your mind, and because you believe you have done something real, you fear consequences of reversing that situation. You are afraid to let go because you don't know what letting go will bring.

Question: And your recommendation?

Answer: Stay in the current moment. Work on the forgiveness lessons that are given to you now. Don't worry about those yet to come. Stay focused on now, and trust Me to lead you one step at a time. It will all be perfect, because I am perfect, and I am the one who knows what is best and most useful for you.

October 26, 2006

Question: Projected as outside the mind, I see the desire to be right and to prove others wrong. I also recognize this same desire in me. What would you share regarding this desire?

Answer: This desire is the desire to prove separation true, for it separates and draws lines so that division seems real.

Whenever this desire is seen, it is to be recognized as false. It is false, because there cannot be right or wrong within illusion. There is only untrue. And it is false, because nothing can separate you from your brother with whom you are fully joined.

The desire to be right and make someone else wrong is a manifestation of the desire to see yourself as separate, which is the desire to believe in illusions. Believing in illusions does not make them true, but it does hide the reflection of truth from your sight.

To choose illusions is to ask confusion to be your guide. As you follow confusion, you are lost from the Vision of clarity.

Let your brother be right by recognizing that he is expressing thoughts within the mind. In this way, he is always right.

You be willing to let go of thoughts derived by thinking. Instead, ask Me how to see.

~~~~~

*Holy Spirit,
let me remember
that a bird is not a bird,
a hand is not a hand,
a body is not a body.*

*Let me remember
that the sky is not the sky,
the clouds are not clouds
and rain is not rain.*

*All that my mind shows me
as I look upon the world
is an error and a mirage.*

How can I think I know based on what I see and experience?

*To think I know
based on what I see
is to be a fool
believing a fool's images.*

*Let me be wise
and trust not my sight.
Let me surrender fully
to You.*

Amen.

~A prayer of awakening