

IT Support Specialist

Are you an enthusiastic IT Professional looking to use your skills to make an eternal impact?

Join the team serving Wycliffe and affiliated organizations and use your skills for the global Bible translation movement!

We're looking for an individual interested in helping global staff move toward independence. Do you enjoy connecting people to help resources? Do you like to create content and build relationships with global IT staff? Are you able to deal with a broad range of problems, often helping multiple people at the same time? You need to enjoy helping people, have good troubleshooting experience, an interest in learning new things, strong teamwork skills, and demonstrate a professional and courteous rapport with the people that you are serving.

Your IT skills and your passion can make a difference for the Bible translation movement.

IT Network Administrator

Ever considered using your network admin experience for advancing the kingdom?

Your skills and experience can have an eternal impact.

We're seeking a network administrator with 2+ years experience who has a passion for making sure that the computer hardware and network infrastructure people involved in Bible translation rely on are effectively used and maintained. Your high standards, organization skills and ability to manage multiple projects and adapt to changing priorities can contribute to the global Bible translation movement.

Could God be calling you to fill this critical role?

IT System Administrator

Could you be one to ensure that the uptime, performance, resources, and security of systems meet the needs of workers in the global Bible translation movement?

We're looking for experienced system administrators who bring troubleshooting skills, attention to established standards and guidelines, and a strong ability to adapt to changing priorities. IT professionals are needed to make Bible translation possible. Your IT skills and experience and your passion to make God's Word available to those still waiting can make an eternal impact.

IT Security Engineer

Your experience and skills will ensure that IT applications and infrastructure for the global Bible translation task are designed and implemented to high standards.

We're seeking a security engineer with 3+ years experience in IT infrastructure and/or application security. Your technical knowledge in security engineering and system and network security and your ability to manage multiple projects and adapt to changing priorities are needed on our IT team.

Join the team of IT Professionals who share a passion for making the Bible available to those still waiting!

Database Administrator

Your DBA experience is needed in the global Bible translation movement.

The Bible translation task is enormous. IT professionals are needed to make Bible translation possible.

We're looking for an individual who brings proven DBA experience and the ability to manage multiple projects and adapt to rapidly changing priorities. The IT Professional who fills this role works well on a team and self-directed, has great organizational skills, and has 2+ years experience.

Is this the role for you to play in God's plan for the nations?

IT Manager

Our passionate and talented IT staff is one of our greatest resources. We're looking for an individual who is just as passionate about investing in our people. With the right manager in place, your team will be able to accomplish goals and achieve success both in their individual roles and as a team.

We're looking for an individual with experience managing technical staff and a proven ability to build strong working relationships with customers, leadership, team members, and peers. You have both tactical project management skills and business program management skills. Your communication skills are excellent and you adapt well to rapidly changing priorities. What's more, you're willing to contribute to the team's efforts by accomplishing needed tasks.

Use your technical management skills to make an eternal impact. Join the global Bible translation movement as an IT manager!

IT Application Administrator

Are you an enthusiastic IT Professional seeking to use your IT skills and experience to make an eternal impact?

Application Admins are needed to serve as application design and configuration experts for one or more applications. Your troubleshooting, communication, and technical skills can ensure the ongoing support of applications used by those involved in Bible translation. We're looking for an IT Professional with 5+ years IT experience or equivalent education who brings a strong ability to manage multiple projects, work well in a team and self-directed, and adapt to changing priorities.

Find out how you can combine your IT skills and your passion for those still waiting for a Bible in their own language!

HOWe THINGS ARE ...

February 2014

Guess what I did this week at work? Did you guess: wrote advertising statements for the standard IT jobs that cover the positions on my team?

People serving in my group have lots of different roles. These seven standard jobs are the starting place for creating each role.

Writing advertising statements is mainly about recruiting new people to fill roles. – I have some needs there: currently vacant positions I'd be thrilled to see God fill with the people He's preparing for those roles—

Writing these advertising statements was also a powerful reminder of the provision of God: for all the amazing and talented people currently filling roles on my team.

Reading them again was another reminder of the privilege you and I have to be involved in this work. For instance, "Is this the role for you to play in God's plan for the nations?" Why yes, yes, it is.

Thanks for your role in the work of Bible translation and in the lives of each member of my team as you've prayed for, provided advice and counsel and supported me ...and them.

Cool Bible translation work (this work where we get to be involved)

Moise Yonta joyfully read aloud a Scripture portion on his smartphone, punctuating the phrases with vigorous gestures. This was God's Word in his mother tongue—the Ngiemboon language of Cameroon—and he was seeing it on his phone for the first time! As he came to the end of the selection, he jumped up and delightedly shook hands with a colleague. With a huge grin, he exclaimed, "Wonderful! Wonderful!"

It was indeed wonderful! Moise was the coordinator for the Ngiemboon translation project. Moise is one of more than 650 million cell phone subscribers in Africa, where cell phone service is far more available than landlines. While cell phones are used worldwide for communications, financial transactions, healthcare, and much more, we believe that God also intended this technology to support the distribution of His Word.

You may have heard about the Every Tribe Every Nation (ETEN) alliance. ETEN brings together philanthropic investors/donors and three Bible agencies—the American Bible Society, Biblica, and Wycliffe. ETEN's vision is to eradicate Bible poverty worldwide in this generation. Its primary focus is the development of the Digital Bible Library (DBL). The DBL currently holds over 600 texts—including the Ngiemboon Bible that Moise reads—all standardized for easy downloading and secured against improper use or corruption. Wycliffe has contributed more than 290 texts so far and many more are on the way.

More information on ETEN is available on their website at <http://everytribeeverynation.org>.
